Further, without limiting the scope of the foregoing, the Chief of Police will not:

1. Fail to establish, communicate and operate with procedures that ensure adherence in the following areas:
   a. Crime prevention
   b. Law enforcement
   c. Victims assistance
   d. Public order
   e. Emergency services
   f. Administration and infrastructure

2. Fail to ensure that the policies and procedures in place meet the standard of adequate and effective, have regard to the Policing Standards Manual (2000) issued by the Ministry of the Solicitor General, and successor guidelines, are reviewed regularly, and, where possible, reflect a commitment to partnership

3. Fail to ensure that members have the necessary training, knowledge, skills and abilities to perform the duties as set out in the policies and procedures.

INTERPRETATION OF THE CHIEF OF POLICE

This executive limitation focuses on all of the Adequacy and Effectiveness provisions within Regulation 3/99 of the Police Services Act and the minimum provisions referenced in sec 4 (2) of the Police Services Act.

It is therefore my interpretation that the Durham Regional Police Service shall have, as our fundamental priorities, the provision of services that deal with the six noted areas: Crime Prevention, Law Enforcement, Victims Assistance, Public Order Maintenance, Emergency Response Services, and Administration and Infrastructure.

It is my further interpretation that adherence to Provincial Adequacy Standards is also demonstrated throughout the year based on compliance with Board Monitoring Reports and reference to these reports is made throughout this document where appropriate.

DATA SUPPORT

The policies and procedures mandated in Ontario Regulation 3/99 Adequacy and Effectiveness of Police Services are implemented within the Durham Regional Police Service (DRPS) through the directive system. Directives are the written orders of the Chief of Police, and outline for members the policies and procedures to be followed in order to ensure adequate and effective police service delivery.

The Quality Assurance – Directives Forms and Audits directive outlines how new and amended directives are to be developed and communicated throughout the police service, including notification to the Durham Regional Police Association. All new directives and revisions to existing directives are communicated internally through Routine Orders and E-parade.

This report provides an itemized account of each area specified in the Durham Regional Police Services Board Policy Adequacy and Effectiveness of Police Services Regulation, along with a corresponding narrative that outlines the DRPS policies and procedures that speak to each component of the regulation. The attached appendix summarizes the details in this report in tabular form.

Policy Statement 1(a): Crime Prevention

i. Crime Prevention and Problem Oriented Policing

The Crime Prevention Initiatives directive sets out the procedures for community-based crime prevention initiatives. This directive outlines member responsibilities to assist and maintain community partnerships, to undertake directed patrols and crime management activities, and to educate the community with regards to crime prevention. The Community Safety Branch holds overall responsibility for the coordination of community-based crime prevention initiatives. The involvement of auxiliaries and volunteers in the delivery of community-based crime prevention initiatives is encouraged; the supervision of each addressed in directives Auxiliary Police Members and Volunteer Program accordingly.

The Problem-Oriented Policing directive lays out a framework for members to follow in order to identify and solve problems in their respective work areas. This framework consists of the following steps: problem identification, analysis, development of a plan, implementation of the plan, and evaluation of the outcome.

Policy Statement 1(b): Law Enforcement

i. Community Patrol

The Community Patrol directive articulates that community patrol plans, comprising general and directed patrol, will provide excellent service delivery, with 24-hour response to calls for service, while maintaining officer and community safety. In support of this policy, community patrol procedures state that members shall ensure that they are aware of factors such as crime and disorder trends and other public safety issues within their respective work areas.

When a crime or disorder issue is identified as having characteristics that may warrant focused police attention, directed patrols may be assigned to supplement general patrol. Directed patrols are short, pre-planned assignments, usually carried out by frontline members, designed to address a specific problem in the community. Directed patrols are based on crime analysis, citizen input and police information. Policies and procedures relating to directed patrol are contained in the Directed Patrol directive.

ii. Dispatch Services

Policies and procedures related to dispatch services are outlined in two directives, Communications and Dispatch and Regional Interoperable Radio Communications System.

All communicators, dispatchers, and their supervisors have the required training to perform their duties. In addition, the Communications/911 Unit Standard Operating Procedures and Training Manual contains detailed procedures that are specific to communications and dispatch services.

iii. Traffic Management, Traffic Law Enforcement and Road Safety

The service has seven directives which relate to traffic management, traffic law enforcement, and road safety (see list in appendix). These directives outline the procedures for the investigation of motor vehicle collisions, unsafe vehicles, impaired driving offences, and suspended drivers.

iv. Criminal Investigators

The DRPS employs criminal investigators in each of the five community policing divisions, as well as in specialty investigative units such as Homicide, Sexual Assault, Major Fraud, Domestic Violence, etc. Members assigned as criminal investigators have successfully completed the General Investigative Techniques course offered by the Ontario Police College. Additional training is offered to investigators in order to complement their knowledge in such specialties as investigative interviewing, death investigations, search warrant writing, specialized investigations, etc.

v. Supervision

The Supervision directive states that supervision will be available to all members twenty-four hours per day. Furthermore, members may request the assistance of their supervisor at any time for support. The directive further states that supervisors shall monitor the performance of members and ensure that the activities they carry out are in compliance with the Police Services Act, the Occupational Health and Safety Act, DRPS directives, as well as all other relevant federal and provincial legislation.

In addition, various directives contain procedures that state when a supervisor must be contacted, and when a supervisor must be present at an incident.

The selection process for supervisors is outlined in the Job Postings and Selection Process directive. To ensure that supervisors have the knowledge, skills, and abilities to supervise, the selection process includes supervisory approval, a review of the performance management plan, resume review, examination or course evaluation, a 360 review, and interview panels. All newly promoted supervisors attend a mandatory 3-day orientation delivered by the Police Education and Innovation Centre (PEIC).

vi. Criminal Investigation Management

The Criminal Investigation Management Plan directive specifies those incidents for which a member must contact their supervisor as soon as practicable and clearly identifies the method by which all criminal investigations shall be conducted. In addition, it outlines the procedures for the assignment of investigative responsibilities to either a uniform member, a criminal investigator, or a member of a specialized investigative unit.

vii. Assistance of Other Police Forces

The Criminal Investigation Management Plan directive ascribes responsibility to ensure that investigators have the requisite knowledge, skills, and abilities to conduct an investigation as assigned and for those circumstances that might require an independent investigation by another law enforcement agency. The directive outlines procedures for obtaining the services of the Ontario Provincial Police Behavioural Sciences and Analysis Services with the appropriate approval; these services include criminal profiling and forensic psychiatry.

viii. General and Specific Criminal Investigations

General criminal investigation procedures are outlined in the directive Criminal Investigation Management Plan. The DRPS has directives containing policies and procedures related to each type of criminal investigation specified in section 12(1) of the Adequacy Standard Regulation (refer to appendix for complete list).

ix. Multi-Officer Response

Procedures for multi-officer response are contained in various directives, such as Robbery, Domestic Violence Occurrences, and Emergency [10-33] Procedure, as well as in the Communications/911 Unit Standard Operating Procedures and Training Manual which specifies the criteria for the assignment of the number of officers to respond to an incident. When necessary procedures distinguish between the primary, or first officer on scene, and assisting officers.

x. Operational Matters Referred to in Subsection 13(1)

The DRPS has directives that contain policies and procedures for each of the operational matters referred to in section 13(1) of the Adequacy Standard Regulation (refer to the appendix for a complete list).

xi. Investigative Supports

The DRPS has directives that contain policies and procedures for each of the investigative supports referred to in clause 5(1)(d) of the Adequacy Standard Regulation (refer to the appendix for a complete list).

xii. Collection, Handling, Preservation, Documentation, and Analysis of Physical Evidence

The Major Crime Scene Management directive outlines the policies and procedures for the collection, control, documentation, and preservation of crime scene evidence. Other directives including Drug Investigations, Forensic Investigative Services, and Seized and Found Property also address the seizure and handling of evidence.

xiii. Specialized Assistance

The Criminal Investigation Management Plan directive contains procedures for obtaining the services of the Ontario Provincial Police Behavioural Sciences and Analysis Services. It also directs the Sexual Assault / Child Abuse Unit and the Domestic Violence Investigative Unit (DVIU) to consult, establish and maintain a positive working relationship with community agencies that provide information and support to victims. Other directives speak to the procedures to obtain specialized assistance depending on the context of the investigation (e.g. Fire Investigations, Drug Investigations, etc.). In addition to specialized assistance in the areas of criminal investigations, the DRPS has a memorandum of understanding with York Regional Police for the assistance of their underwater recovery team.

Provision of Police Services in Respect of All Navigable Bodies and Courses of Water

The directive Waterways Policing outlines the required training, equipment, and procedures for policing the waterways of Durham Region.

xiv. Court Security

Court Services provides security to courthouse justices, courthouse staff, persons in custody, and all persons who attend courthouse proceedings. They also provide general security for the courthouse premises.

The Court Security directive outlines procedures for courthouse and courtroom security at both the Durham Region Courthouse and the Provincial Offences Court. The directive also provides details on the training required by Court Services members; and on the responsibilities of Court Services supervisors. The Prisoner Care and Control – Court Services Branch directive contains the procedures for ensuring the secure transport of prisoners from one lockup facility to another lockup facility, and between a lockup facility and a courthouse or courtroom.

In addition to the procedures outlined in the Court Security Directive, there is a separate lockdown protocol which provides detailed procedures for Durham Region Courthouse personnel when responding to a serious threat that necessitates a lockdown of the building.

Policy Statement 1(c): Victims Assistance

The Victim Assistance Procedure directive addresses the need to assist victims of crime and tragic circumstances by providing information, referrals to services, and short-term emotional support while ensuring that these victims are treated with courtesy, compassion and respect. The Board receives an Annual Report from Victim Services of Durham Region, as well as a monitoring report on Assistance to Victims of Crime (M119-18 refers).

Policy Statement 1(d): Public Order

i. Deployment

The Public Safety Unit (formerly Public Order Unit) consists of sworn members who, in addition to their regular duties, receive crowd management and search training. The Public Safety Unit is called out to deal with various search situations including searches for missing emotionally disturbed persons, Alzheimer's patients, young children, and evidence searches; as well to provide a safe environment for the community at large while respecting the rights and freedoms of individuals to lawfully assemble and peacefully protest. The circumstances in which the Public Safety Unit may be called out are contained in the Public Safety Unit directive.

The Public Safety Unit maintains a manual containing its procedures, which is available to all members of the unit in accordance with section 19(2) of the Adequacy Standards Regulation.

ii. Labour Disputes

A labour dispute is a civil matter between management and labour; if no breach of the peace occurs, police intervention is usually not needed. A Labour Liaison Officer, part of the Emergency Measures Office, may meet with management and organized labour prior to and during a labour dispute; these consultations usually ensure that all parties understand their legal rights and obligations, and assist in maintaining peaceful and law-abiding activities during labour disputes. The actions expected of DRPS members attending labour disputes are contained in the Labour Disputes directive.

Policy Statement 1(e): Emergency Services

i. Preliminary Perimeter Control and Containment

Front line members are often responsible for initial perimeter control and containment at high-risk incidents until relieved by members of the Tactical Support Unit (TSU). The directive Preliminary Perimeter Control and Containment outlines the containment procedures for first responders, assisting officers, and patrol supervisors responding to a crisis situation.

ii. Training and Qualifications for Members of Containment Teams, Tactical Units, Hostage Rescue Teams, Crisis Negotiators and Major Incident Commanders

The Tactical Support Unit and Hostage Rescue Team (TSU) is made up of subject matter experts in the field of firearms and tactics. TSU members have received training in dynamic entry and hostage rescue that meet the Ministry's accreditation standards. Members of the TSU are trained to de-escalate an incident with carefully planned actions and through the tactical concept of "contain and talk out, negotiate, crisis intervention", which successfully concludes most situations. Tactical Support Unit members are trained and equipped to respond to a range of critical incidents, including situations involving emotionally disturbed persons.

The Crisis Negotiators directive specifies the procedures for the deployment and training of DRPS crisis negotiators. Training includes completion of the Canadian Police College Crisis Negotiators course, or provincial equivalent, with a refresher course to be attended at minimum once every three years. Additional training includes a minimum of two training sessions each year. The DRPS currently has ten crisis negotiators.

The Incident Command directive outlines the requirements for selection and training for DRPS incident commanders. The successful completion of the Ministry of Community Safety and Correctional Services accredited Critical Incident Command course, followed by annual scenario and refresher training, is mandatory for those members that wish to become and/or remain active major incident commanders.

iii. Deployment of Tactical Unit, Hostage Rescue Team, Major Incident Commanders, Crisis Negotiators, Police Explosive Forced Entry Technicians and Explosive Disposal Technicians; Emergency Response Services

Tactical Support Unit (TSU) members are deployed during incidents that involve hostages or forcibly confined persons, as well as armed or barricaded persons. Policies and procedures relating deployment are outlined in the Tactical Support Unit and Hostage Rescue Team directive and a manual is available to the team that speaks to hostage rescue, tactics, and explosive forced entry. An Incident Commander is activated for any call out requiring TSU.

The Incident Command directive provides the policies that identify the circumstances in which an incident command callout should occur. The Service currently has six trained critical incident commanders in active-rotation who can assume control of a scene and coordinate the activities of all personnel and resources involved. These critical incident commanders are members of the National Incident Command Working Group Association, and participate at the Canadian Police College Critical Incident Commanders course.

Crisis negotiators provide effective crisis intervention for citizens who have temporarily lost their mental or emotional perspective and problem solving abilities. Policies and procedures for the deployment of crisis negotiators are outlined in the Crisis Negotiators directive. Each negotiator has access to the Crisis Negotiators Field Guide, 2nd Edition, as a manual reference and an internal manual under development.

Procedures for the deployment of explosive disposal technicians are outlined in the Chemical Biological Radiological Nuclear and Explosive ~ CBRNE directive.

iv. Emergency Plan

The Disaster Response directive contains the policies and procedures related to emergency planning. The DRPS has an Emergency Measures (EM) officer whose role is to coordinate the long-term planning efforts of the police in situations of emergencies and disasters. This is done in conjunction with the Durham Emergency Management Office, and other emergency response agencies. The EM officer also works closely with municipal community emergency management coordinators (CEMC) in supporting municipal plans, as well as provincial and federal partners.

The EM officer is responsible for planning for natural disasters such as floods and severe weather conditions, as well as potential human-caused emergencies such as hazardous spills, nuclear incidents, train derailments or aircraft crashes that would necessitate a quick and effective response by emergency services. Planning for the internal continuity of operations should a natural, human induced or technological emergency or disaster occur is included in these responsibilities.

The Incident Management System (IMS) is a standardized approach to emergency management encompassing personnel, facilities, equipment, procedures, and communications operating within a common organizational structure. The DRPS has members trained at each of IMS-100, -200, and -300 levels; as well as one member who is a certified IMS instructor, with another in the process of attaining that designation. Everyone involved in incident command and duty inspectors have IMS-200. In 2014 members completed the online IMS-100 course; new recruits must now complete the IMS-100 level as a prerequisite of the Ontario Police College Basic Constable Training course.

v. Ground Search

The Missing Persons directive establishes the procedure for conducting missing person searches. The roles and responsibilities of members involved in a missing person incident are set out in this directive, including those of the Search Manager. Volunteers may be used in ground searches for lost or missing persons, subject to proper supervision. An appendix to the Missing Persons directive provides a comprehensive procedure for requesting ground search resources, including Public Safety Unit.

vi. Counter-Terrorism

The Terrorism directive provides members with direction in dealing with terrorist incidents. The directive clearly states that it is not meant to replace the Provincial Counter-Terrorism Plan (PCTP) or the National Counter-Terrorism Plan (NCTP).

If an event takes place, which falls within the parameters of the NCTP, the Integrated National Security Enforcement Team and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP) shall be notified.

Policy Statement 1(f): Administration and Infrastructure

Section 30(1) of the Adequacy Standards Regulation stipulates that every police services board will prepare a business plan for its police force at least once every three years. The current DRPS business plan is the 2017-2019 Business Plan, approved by the Durham Regional Police Services Board in December 2016 (M415-16 refers). The service policy that outlines the development, implementation, and reporting of the business plan is documented in the Business Planning directive.

The process of developing of the 2017-2019 Business Plan included one-on-one consultation with the public as well as a public opinion survey, and a survey of the business community. Consultations were also held with municipal councils, school boards and community organizations. These efforts ensure that the service has undertaken appropriate consultation during the development of the business plan in accordance with section 32(2) of the Adequacy Standards Regulation.

Each year, in accordance with section 31 of the Adequacy Standards, the police service produces an Annual Report that relates the activities of the service during the previous fiscal year. The Annual Report is presented to the Police Services Board in June of each year. The Annual Reporting directive sets out the requirements and responsibilities for the production of the report.

The Quality Assurance Unit is responsible for the maintenance of the directive system. In addition to ensuring that directives are adequate, up-to-date, and reviewed regularly, the Quality Assurance Unit also conducts compliance audits of directives to ensure that the service is providing adequate and effective police services to Durham Region. The board receives the Audit Function monitoring report in April of each year (M116-18 refers). This quality assurance process satisfies the requirement stipulated in section 35 of the Adequacy Standards Regulation.

In accordance with section 34 of the Adequacy Standards Regulation, the DRPS has procedures in place for the investigation of complaints. These procedures are contained in the directive Complaints Process – Police Services Act.

Policy Statement 2

Each of the policies and procedures embedded in the directives and manuals described above meet the standard of adequate and effective, and are based upon the guidelines within the Policing Standards Manual (2000). Directives are reviewed regularly, and revised when necessary. A schedule to manage the review of directives is in place that assists with ensuring all directives are reviewed on a cycle appropriate to their assigned priority. Revisions to directives are communicated immediately via Routine Orders.

Policy Statement 3

The Police Education and Innovation Centre (PEIC) provides training programs to ensure that members have the necessary knowledge, skills and abilities to perform their duties. This includes the annual training that members receive on use of force, as well as de-escalation tactics, specialized courses to augment members existing skills and leadership development. Courses are offered under the following portfolios: Patrol Services, Investigative Services, Predatory Crime, Leadership Development, Use of Force, and Police Vehicle Operations. Learning outcomes are assigned to each course and evaluation methods identified in the course outline.
