Annual Report

2014

About DRPS

The Durham Regional Police Service is the 10th largest municipal police service in Canada, with approximately 1,300 sworn and civilian employees.

We patrol over 2,500 sq. km. east of Toronto and York Region, from the southeast shore of Lake Simcoe to the north shore of Lake Ontario. About 90 per cent of our population (approximately 650,000 people) lives along the north shore of Lake Ontario.

We are a problem-solving organization that, in partnership with our community, addresses the root causes of crime, fear of crime and anti-social behaviour.

O u r V a l u e s

Every member of the Durham Regional Police Service is committed to providing quality service in partnership with our community. While learning from each other, we will achieve excellence through pride, respect, understanding and ethical behaviour.

Message from the Board

Message from the Chair of the Police Services Board

On behalf of the Durham Regional Police Services Board, I am pleased to recognize the accomplishments of our Police Service in the past year.

The year 2014 was marked by significant change at the DRPS. At the Senior Command Level, Chief Ewles retired after spending seven years in the position, and Deputy Burns retired soon after. Chief Ewles will be remembered for his passionate commitment to community outreach and problem-oriented policing, and for ensuring that the DRPS was well equipped with the human, financial and capital resources to fulfill its commitments. Deputy Chief Burns led a significant number of operational and operational support projects and partnerships on behalf of the DRPS during his 30-year policing career. Both Chief Ewles and Deputy Burns will be remembered fondly.

The Board was exceptionally pleased to welcome long-time DRPS member Paul Martin as its new Chief in the spring of 2014. Following a national search, we were delighted to find the best candidate here within our Police Service. At the end of the year, we also attracted a senior leader from the Toronto Police Service to serve as our Deputy Chief. Chris Fernandes was a police officer in Toronto for 28 years prior to joining our Service and we look forward to his contributions in the years ahead.

Following the municipal election in the fall of 2014, the composition of the Board was also adjusted. Councillor Bobbie Drew and community member Mr. Stindar Lal were appointed to the Board by Regional Council, replacing Mayor John Henry of Oshawa and Mr. Robert Fraser. We would like to thank Mayor Henry and Mr. Fraser for their dedication and contributions to Board deliberations over the last four years and welcome Councillor Drew and Mr. Lal to the Board table.

Change also dominated the operational landscape and the Board is pleased at the ability of the men and women of the DRPS to drive and embrace it. The DRPS welcomed new police officers for the first time in five years, sending 15 recruits to the Ontario Police College in December to replace retiring officers. The launch of the NextGen project, our new interoperable radio communications system, was a significant milestone in the history of the DRPS. A new website was launched and social media practices were expanded to improve how the DRPS interacts with the public. And the Continuous Improvement Program has led to important internal process changes and has been instilled as the foundation of our organizational commitment to provide the citizens of Durham Region with high quality, efficient police services.

The adaptability and innovation demonstrated by members of the DRPS throughout 2014 was exemplary and will help position the organization for continued success.

Message from the Chief

With the retirement of Chief Constable Mike Ewles halfway through 2014, I was given the privilege of succeeding him as the Chief of this fine police service.

Mike did an outstanding job as our Chief and I am proud to carry on the major initiatives he began, such as our new approach to finding internal efficiencies, opening up much-needed police facilities and continuing our community outreach efforts.

There are too many important milestones to mention here, but the success of Mike Ewles' tenure will positively impact our service for years to come. From our new common-platform radio system to the opening of the Operations Training Centre, Mike helped improve the lives of our members and the lives of our citizens.

One of the greatest challenges facing policing today is the escalating costs and the ability of municipalities to pay. Through our Continuous Improvement Program, we developed realistic measurement tools that will allow us to review all of our programs and services with an eye to improving our effectiveness and efficiency.

Despite the economic challenges facing policing, I believe the future is bright. We have always been flexible and adaptable as a police service and with the support and guidance of our Police Services Board, we will meet these challenges and continue to deliver excellence in policing.

This excellence is reflected on the following pages. As you scroll through our annual highlights and operation results, feel reassured that we live in one of the safest large communities in Canada, thanks in large part to the outstanding women and men of the Durham Regional Police Service.

Paul Martin
Chief of Police

Governance

Meeting the Board's Targets

Significant milestones were achieved in 2014 as the Police Services Board provided the leadership, direction and financial resources required to keep Durham Region communities safe.

Construction continued on two much-needed operational buildings: the new home of East Division and a state-of-the-art Forensic Investigation Facility. Both structures are located on our Clarington Complex lands, on Highway 2 just west of Bowmanville. Steady progress continued throughout the year on both buildings and we remain on target and on budget for openings by the end of 2015. A second Phase, involving two more buildings (a Regional Support Centre and a Centre for Investigative Excellence) will be considered by the Board in 2015.

The new common-platform P25 Phase II radio system, built from scratch in Durham Region, went live in the fall of 2014. For the first time ever, emergency services in Durham Region and support agencies such as roads departments, can talk together on a safe and secure radio channel. This technology and approach has been hailed as a model for other communities by the Canadian Association of Chiefs of Police. The DRPS capital cost was $17.3 million and the extensive project remained within the contingency period of its three-year planning schedule. The NextGen Radio System is a seven-channel system that includes 27 sites, more than 2,800 users and handles about 44,000 push-to-talk requests a day. In terms of officer safety, the new system improved local coverage on portable radios to 99 per cent.

The Board gave direction to the Service to conduct a review of all core services to ensure that police programs and services were being delivered in the most cost effective and efficient way. An expert consultant was hired to conduct an Organizational Structure Review in early 2014 as an initial phase in the development of the DRPS Continuous Improvement Program (CIP). The objective of this study was to review administrative and business processes, review all services provided by the police, and to suggest any organizational changes needed to address future challenges.

After extensive consultations, the final report made 10 strategic recommendations for long-term success, set out in three phases: Internal Process Improvements; Alignment and Service Delivery; and Institutionalizing the Intelligence-Led Model.

The Service developed a charter for a Continuous Improvement Program that will regularly review programs and services on a repeating basis. A great deal of work was invested in the CIP in 2014, including the creation of an internal Innovation Box for employees to offer suggestions, the development of a new Performance Management Program and a redesign of the promotional process. Work continued on all areas throughout the calendar year.

Finally, the Board's new 2014-2016 Business Plan was launched after extensive community consultations. The plan is required by provincial legislation and sets the priorities and goals for service delivery over the next three years (see page 17 for more details).

Change of Command

After seven years as Chief Constable, Mike Ewles retired in 2014 and was replaced by Paul Martin.

A Change of Command ceremony was held at Regional Headquarters on June 10, 2014 as the 50-year-old Whitby resident became the seventh chief in the 40-year history of the Durham Regional Police Service.

Chiefs and dignitaries from across Ontario attended the event, held on the front grounds of the Region of Durham headquarters on Rossland Road East in Whitby.

Surrounded by friends and family, Chief Paul Martin pledged to continue the tradition of strong leadership and fairness established by the chiefs before him.

The Change of Command ceremony is a tradition in policing and provides the members and the community a chance not only to welcome the new chief, but also to say farewell to the retiring one. Mike Ewles was warmly received as he bid members of the DRPS goodbye after 32 years of service. He was given three cheers by the membership as he symbolically departed the dais accompanied by a lone piper.

Under his leadership, the DRPS was able to bring many needed capital projects forward, including a new firing range and Comms/911 centre in Whitby (the Operations Training Centre), a new divisional building in Clarington and a new centre for forensic sciences, also in Clarington.

2014 Highlights

The longest and most extensive missing person case in DRP history began in the early morning hours of January 13, 2014. A 52-year-old high school teacher named Jeffrey Boucher left his home for a routine morning jog. He never returned.

Hundreds of officers and volunteers began searching in the bitter cold for any trace in the ensuing days. An intensive week-long ground and air search involved Central West Division officers, Incident Command, Auxiliary, Air1, K-9, Homicide and many others. It was a well-organized and thorough approach, led by an experienced search master.

The case created intense media interest, requiring daily press conferences at the command post. National and then international media picked up the story and it was the topic of conversation for weeks and weeks. On March 11th, one of his running shoes was found on the Whitby shoreline. On March 29th a retired DRPS officer walking his dog discovered the body on the shore of Lake Ontario near the Oshawa/Whitby border. Although the medical cause of death was not determined, no foul play was suspected. The family had been provided with some level of closure at last.

Auto Theft Ring Dismantled

Seven people were arrested and over $1 million in stolen automobiles were recovered after a joint forces investigation into an auto theft ring operating in Durham Region, York Region and Toronto.

In October 2013, members from the DRPS West Division Property Crimes Unit noticed an increase in the amount of automobile thefts in the region and began investigating. Detectives soon found a connection between two stolen vehicles from Durham Region and a person of interest in a York Regional Police auto fraud and theft investigation.

Teams from both police services began working together and over the following months, discovered a criminal organization. In July 2014, Durham Regional Police and York Regional Police formalized a Joint Force Operation, called Project Lakeland, to dismantle this organized crime ring operating in the Greater Toronto Area.

This crime group included an informal collection of thieves who stole the cars, a licensed car dealer who fraudulently obtained Ministry of Transportation documents, a person responsible for changing the Vehicle Information Number (VIN) on the vehicles to mask their identity and an exporter who shipped the stolen vehicles from Canada to be sold in Africa. The stolen vehicles would be sealed in steel sea containers in the GTA and shipped to Africa via the Ports of Halifax and Montreal.

On December 8th, 2014, seven search warrants were executed – five in Toronto and two in York Region. Seven people were arrested and charged with a total of 46 offences.

As part of this investigation, search warrants were executed at residences and businesses in Toronto and York Region. Police recovered: cocaine (1 gram); heroin (15 grams); $11,000 in cash; fraudulent personal identification documents; fraudulently obtained documents, fraudulent vehicle identification number plates, a Land Rover, a motorcycle, several computers and cellular phones.

In total, 29 stolen motor vehicles and one motorcycle were recovered, with a value of approximately $1,119,000. The vehicle models were primarily Toyotas, but also included Land Rovers and Hondas.

DRP Hosts Major Conference on Family Violence

The two-day conference, titled Impact of Family Violence: A South Asian Perspective (FVC 2014), took place May 14 and 15 at Durham College/UOIT. It was organized by the Social Services Network (SSN) and the Durham Regional Police Service was proud to be a major sponsor and co-ordinator of the event.

FVC 2014 is part of a five-year initiative developed to understand the specific nature, systems and complex cultural and family dynamics that pose barriers and challenges to preventing and responding to abuse when it occurs in South Asian families. The conference helped connect the diverse South Asian population with key sectors and mainstream service providers involved in violence prevention and response. Family violence is not unique to South Asian families, but the culture is unique and a multi-partner approach is needed.

Some of the key organizers and supporters of the event were: Michael Bowe & Dr. Naila Butt (co-chairs of the conference); Naushad Hirji, Board Chair of the Social Services Network; Dr. Nawal H. Ammar, Dean and Professor, Faculty of Criminology, Justice and Policing Studies at UOIT; and Dr. Susan Sproul, Dean of the School of Health & Community Services at Durham College. Key organizers from the DRPS included Chief Mike Ewles, Inspector Eva Reti, Sgt. Emmanuel Itheme and PEIC Dean June MacDonald-Jenkins

Aparna Bhattacharyya, Executive Director of Raksha in Atlanta, Georgia, spoke about the barriers South Asian victims must overcome to seek help. She stressed that domestic abuse was not about anger or rage, it was about control and manipulation. She urged victims to reach out for help, either through the police or a social services agency. She also called on local support networks to do more by offering services in multiple languages, and build stronger partnerships with South Asian communities.

Raksha, meaning “protection” in several South Asian languages, is a Georgia-based non-profit organization for the South Asian Community. Raksha’s mission is to promote a stronger and healthier South Asian community through confidential support services, education, and advocacy. For more information, visit www.raksha.org.

Over the course of two days, there were more than 20 presenters from various agencies who shared best practices in the field of family violence. In addition to Aparna Bhattacharyya, the other keynote speaker was Dr. Yasmin Jiwani, Professor of Communications Studies at Concordia University in Montreal.

Roadway Safety

With crimes slowly decreasing across Ontario, one category of concern involves collisions on our roadways. In 2014, we saw an increase in property-damage collisions (up 2.4 per cent) and Criminal Code driving violations increased 17.5 per cent, largely influenced by increased enforcement activities. Impaired Operation incidents were also up by 6.9 per cent, to 857 reported occurrences. Roadway safety is one of only a handful of categories that appears to be increasing, perhaps as a result of an increasing population and more vehicles on the roads.

In order to address this disturbing trend, roadway safety was made a priority in our divisional patrol plans. We also launched a new road safety campaign in 2014 focusing on the “Big Four Killers” on our roadways.

The campaign was aimed at educating drivers about the four main causes of fatal collisions: distracted driving, aggressive driving, impaired driving and not wearing seatbelts.

As part of the media launch, officers from our Traffic Services Branch set up a blitz on the corner of Salem Road and Kingston Road in Ajax that focused on distracted driving. In less than three hours at this intersection, officers issued 22 Provincial Offence Notices (PONs) for distracted driving. Six other PONs were issued for other offences, including not wearing a seatbelt. Officers also stopped one driver who was not only talking on his cellphone while behind the wheel, but he was also driving with a suspended licence!

Offenders were given a ticket for their offence, as well as a flyer that aimed to educate them on the dangers of the “Big Four Killers.” The price for distracted driving took a big jump in 2014 when the fine was increased from $155 to $280.

The “Big Four Killers” campaign ran throughout 2014 and resulted in hundreds of tickets designed to change the behavior of motorists.

Chief for a Day

Nine-year-old Victoria Broomer had a day she won't soon forget as she enjoyed serving as our Chief for a Day, winning a community essay contest offered by the Police Appreciation Dinner and Awards Night (PADAN) committee.

Chief Victoria was picked up at Hillsdale Public School and escorted to Regional Headquarters where a Change of Command ceremony took place and she was sworn in as Durham Regional Police Chief for a Day. In the crowded boardroom, Chief Victoria was overwhelmed by the amount of support she received and was excited to get on with her day!

She had a busy day, as she visited various police units including the Forensic Identification Unit, the Central Cellblock, Communications/911 and the Police Education and Innovation Centre. She also had the opportunity to inspect the DRPS motorcycles and Traffic Services vehicles. Chief Victoria had a surprise visit from K-9 Blitz before completing her day with a ride in the police helicopter, Air1.

Victoria also did a wonderful job delivering her winning speech before a sold-out crowd of 600 people at the 12th Annual PADAN dinner, held Oct. 21, 2014.

2014 Highlights

30th Anniversary of our Children's Games

Community members and DRPS officials gathered at the Pickering Recreation Centre in October 2014 to celebrate the 30th Anniversary of the Children's Games.

The games began 30 years ago when DRP officers wanted to provide a day of fun for local children with physical disabilities. The event has continued since that time and has become a favourite event for both families, and DRP officers and civilians.

After the athletes made their grand entrance into the Pickering Rec Centre, Deputy Chief Scott Burns opened the Games with the top male and top female athletes, Joshua and Madison. A ceremonial ribbon cutting took place with the help of: Inspector of West Division, Bruce Townley; President of the DRPA, Randy Henning; Regional Chair and Police Services Board Chair, Roger Anderson; Mayor of Pickering, Dave Ryan and several other local dignitaries. Founding Games Chair, retired DRP Cst. Stew Giffin, was also on hand to celebrate the milestone that started with his vision 30 years ago.

Back in 1985, Cst. Giffin proposed his vision to host an annual sporting event for children, between the ages of six and 16, with various physical disabilities. With the support of local volunteers; Police Chief of the day, Jon Jenkins; and the Mayor of Pickering, Jack Anderson; Cst. Giffin saw his vision come to life. A committee was formed and approached the City of Pickering to utilize the Pickering Recreation Centre as the Game's home. Approval was granted through a unanimous vote and the Recreation Centre is still hosting the annual event 30 years later.

The day-long event involves children participating through the cooperation of Campbell Children's School and Grandview Children's Centre. Each year 50 to 100 kids attend the Games with their guardians to participate in a number of sporting events including basketball, moonball, golf, curling and wheelchair rugby.

The spirit and sportsmanship of all athletes was recognized through the awarding of medals and trophies and they enjoyed a pizza lunch served by DRPS members and local volunteers.

The Special Investigations Unit

Every year, police officers across Ontario find themselves inevitably in life-threatening or dangerous situations while on duty. From Emotionally Disturbed Person calls to domestic incidents, police officers are trained in how to use various levels of force and how much force is appropriate.

In Ontario, when a person is seriously injured or killed during any police involvement, the Special Investigations Unit must be notified.

In 2014, the SIU invoked their mandate five times in Durham, compared to two times the year before. No major concerns were identified and, in fact, the SIU commented several times about the high level of cooperation and professionalism their investigators received from our police officers.

Force Seldom Used by the DRPS

The DRP rarely had to use force during thousands of interactions with the public in 2014. In fact, force was used less than one per cent of the time.

With 84,430 calls for service in 2014, Use Of Force options were employed only 211 times (only 0.25 per cent of calls). The previous year, 296 UOF reports were filed.

Of the 84,430 calls, a threat involving a possible weapon occurred 3,710 times. Officers only used force in 4.3 per cent of these weapon calls, compared to 7.6 per cent in 2013. This shows the good judgment of officers and the de-escalation training they receive.

Officers drew their firearms 156 times in 2014 but only discharged a weapon 16 times, all for animal destruction. Conducted Energy Weapons (CEWs), also known by their brand name Taser, were deployed only 26 times, a reduction from the 34 deployments in 2013.

2014 Highlights

Public Complaints Remain Low

The total number of public complaints against members of the DRPS stayed relatively the same in 2014.

The DRPS Professional Standards Unit (PSU) report 97 complaints were received in 2014, compared with 95 the year before. In 2014, there were 84,430 calls for service handled by the DRPS, which means the rate of public complaints is very low. Of the 97 complaints, 44 were addressed by the OIPRD and 52 directed to the PSU. The vast majority were found to be unsubstantiated after further review.

The number of public complaints has decreased over the years. For example, in 2010, there were 125 public complaints received. The majority of complaints are quickly resolved or are found to be unsubstantiated or unfounded after initial investigation. In some instances, further follow up is required. If the complaint is found to have merit, the punishment for the officer can range from a verbal reprimand to outright dismissal.

In most police services, the majority of public complaints involve allegations of improper language, rudeness or poor attitude amongst police officers.

Collision Reporting Centre Saves Officer Time

The Collision Reporting Centre (CRC) located at 650 Rossland Road in Whitby continues to save valuable time for frontline officers.

The CRC processed 6,795 collisions in 2014, saving the equivalent of seven full-time police officers.

Instead of waiting by the side of a road for police to arrive after a non-injury collision, citizens can drive or tow their vehicles to the CRC for immediate service. Since minor “fender bender” collisions are low on the police priority list, some motorists had to wait for hours before officers could arrive. A pilot project in Pickering in 2004 helped change that and was positively received by the public. The regional CRC opening in 2009 has been a great success.

In 2014, the CRC dealt with 11,849 drivers, an average of 33 drivers a day. The DRPS also laid 1,532 charges in the CRC last year, mostly under the Highway Traffic Act. The CRC is operated under a contract by Accident Support Services International Ltd. (ASSIL), a private company that also operates similar facilities in Toronto, Hamilton and Barrie.

Our Community Safety Commitment

Every successful business has a long-term strategic plan and policing is no different. The DRP operates within a three-year planning cycle that guides us in achieving the statutory requirements of the Police Services Act and enhances our service level to a growing community.

After months of consultations and extensive reviews of best practices in policing, the Durham Regional Police Services Board published its new three-year Strategic Business Plan for 2014-2016: Our Community Safety Commitment.

The new Strategic Business Plan is a blueprint for the future of policing and service delivery in Durham Region. The Plan clearly identifies the new philosophy of the police service, its strategic direction and its priorities for the future. It clearly identifies our Continuous Improvement Program as a central commitment to regularly review all of our programs and services to ensure they are effective and efficient.

The Plan identifies several key priorities:

- Community Presence (enforcing the law and being more visible)
- Community Engagement (leveraging our diversity to provide education, problem solve and reduce crime and fear of crime)
- Community of Our Youth (doing our part to help youth succeed to become our future leaders)
- Professionalism and Accountability (our commitment to maintain or exceed the high standards demanded by our community)
- Measuring Our Effect

Progress on the key objectives in the Business Plan will be regularly checked and adjustments made throughout the three-year cycle.

Financial Details

Financial Activity

The vast majority of our budget is spent on wages and benefits. As a key deliverer of human services, the DRPS invests in its frontline patrol and investigative support teams. When compared to similar-sized police services, our cost per capita is very competitive.

Recognition & Awards

Police Appreciation Night

The 12th Annual Police Appreciation Dinner and Awards Night (PADAN) took place at Deer Creek Golf & Convention Centre in Ajax, where members of the community came together to recognize the heroism, dedication and bravery of the men and women of the Durham Regional Police Service. The theme this year, 40 Years of Excellence, was celebrated as the Durham Regional Police Service remembered its proud history.

This year, awards were presented to:

- Retired Chief Mike Ewles, for his tireless dedication to the community. The Mike Ewles Community Builder Award was created to acknowledge Mike's outstanding efforts to build relationships across our diverse region, so the DRPS can better meet the needs of our communities.
- Constable Christian Pottle, of West Division, who responded to a report of a distraught female wanting to harm not only herself, but her son and the father of her child. The female entered her son's daycare, armed with a 12" kitchen knife and a replica handgun. Constable Pottle entered the building and was able to disarm the female before she could harm anyone inside.
- Members of the investigative teams involved in Project Spencer and Project Armstrong, dedicated to ending human trafficking in our region. These officers work tirelessly to not only arrest the controllers who put these females at risk every day, but to get the victims the help they need to turn their lives around.

Members of the PADAN Committee recognized Project Spencer and Project Armstrong at the 2014 event.

- The Project Pilot team, who spent five years bringing two murderers to justice during the investigation into the homicides of Harjinder Singh Sandhu and Puneet Singh Chhina. Involving more than 280 people, from policing and justice organizations across the country, teamwork and dedication were instrumental in the successful conclusion of this case.
- A special presentation also took place to honour CTV's WS and Sandie Rinaldo, for their assistance in raising awareness of Internet luring during their production of Predators Playground. The piece is focused around a case in Durham that saw a local school teacher, arrested and charged with numerous child pornography offences.

Another highlight of the night was a speech from nine-year-old Victoria Broomer, a Grade 5 student at Hillsdale Public School in Oshawa. Full of energy and enthusiasm, she delivered her award-winning essay, much to the delight of the audience. When she was sworn in as Chief for a Day on Oct. 21, she received a custom-made Chief of Police uniform and toured various units across the service.
