Launch of the Chief of Police Selection Process

The Durham Regional Police Services Board is pleased to announce that the search for the next Chief of Police of the Durham Regional Police Service (DRPS) has begun. The new Chief of Police will replace Chief Todd Rollauer, who is retiring at the end of March 2023.

“Choosing the Chief of Police is one of the Board’s most critical responsibilities,” said Acting Board Chair, Garry Cubitt. “The Board is eager to conduct a thorough, fair, and community-informed selection process to identify the best candidate to lead the DRPS and ensure that we continue our tradition of policing excellence in Durham Region.”

Waterhouse Executive Search will be supporting the Board in the recruitment process. The former Chief of the York Regional Police, Mr. Eric Jolliffe, and the former Chief of the Winnipeg Police and Inspector General of Policing for Ontario, Mr. Devon Clunis, will also be providing advice and assistance to the Board. The report on leadership qualities prepared by Environics Research, following extensive citizen, stakeholder and member consultations, will be a key reference tool as the Board evaluates candidates and makes its selection.

Candidates may make submissions until January 24, 2023.

The Durham Regional Police Services Board is the civilian governing body of the Police Service. Its responsibilities include establishing objectives for policing in consultation with the Chief of the Police, setting policies for the effective management of the Police Service, and hiring and monitoring the performance of the Chief of Police. The Board consists of seven members, three appointed by the Province of Ontario and four chosen by Regional Council.
